

Concert Named Top Workplace – British Columbia & Canada

Concert is proud to have been named by Canadian Business magazine as one of the “Best Workplaces in Canada” for 2007. We were also pleased to be named one of the “Top 25 Companies to Work for in BC” by BC Business magazine for 2006.

“From the people who own our company to the people we employ, our people are what make Concert a developer with a difference,” says David Podmore, President and Chief Executive Officer. “With their support we have a respectful and rewarding employment environment.”

The Concert team is unique, with varied backgrounds and experience in property acquisition, planning, building design, project management, construction, property management, real estate finance, sales and marketing, customer service and community relations.

Concert is continually seeking ways to capitalize on its diverse capabilities and has provided project and construction management services to private, public and non-profit sector organizations. For instance, with the YMCA we are developing their new state-of-the-art facility in downtown Vancouver, while also building Patina, a luxury highrise condominium with 256 suites.

Concert’s development and project management teams have expertise in co-ordinating complex projects. Every Concert project is assigned a team of key personnel from planning, finance, construction and sales that is responsible for the project through to completion.

Our development managers are responsible for internal communications, liaising with communities and government agencies, and ensuring the project objectives are met.

Our project managers are responsible for co-ordinating and supervising external consultants and contractors, managing all on-site construction activities and ensuring the project is completed on time and on budget.

With this approach, Concert has developed multi-phased projects in an orderly sequence while responding to changing markets.

Concert Realty Services manages Concert’s residential, industrial, office and retail properties. We employ people who understand and are part of the communities in which we operate. Concert provides a full range of real estate management services in order to meet the needs of our customers in a professional and prompt manner.

Concert’s sales and marketing team is a fundamental part of the development process. An in-depth knowledge of the market and consumer expectations provides clear direction for developing highly saleable projects. The team is also responsible for creating and executing marketing strategies that are unique to each project, from advertising, promotional materials and presentations that reflect our values to winning awards from the real estate and marketing communities.

“We encourage all our employees to think for themselves and to speak out when an idea needs to be heard. It’s a work style that’s led to many successes, including numerous awards for our innovative real estate development solutions,” said Podmore.

President's Message Our Future - Commitment to Skills

While the outlook for the real estate industry remains positive, the industry continues to face the challenge of the skilled trades shortages. The combination of major demographic shifts such as an aging workforce, accelerating pace of technology changes, several major construction projects and the expansion of new sectors are placing enormous pressures on the labour market.

Worker shortages can affect project deadlines as well as budgets, and Concert recognizes that skilled tradespeople are the strength behind our success. A strong development industry hinges on the ongoing availability of these highly skilled people.

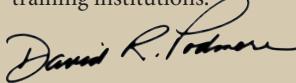

This is especially true in today's competitive market, and Concert prides itself in taking an active part in finding ways to provide opportunities for trades education and training through a number of initiatives, including several programs with BCIT. Prospective workers are flocking to these training programs, drawn by the prospect of an excellent work environment, good wages, employment opportunities that have not been seen in decades and competitive benefits.

We also recognize the valuable contribution that tradespeople have played in the development of a skilled workforce in this province and we take pride in their achievements. As a company owned exclusively by Canadian union and management pension funds representing more than 200,000 Canadian workers, Concert understands that the support the trades provide to the marketplace is vital to the success of the industry, which is why our construction labour force is made up of skilled tradespeople.

Furthermore, veterans play a big role in showing newcomers the ropes, and through the trades and apprenticeship programs we make sure that their knowledge and experience doesn't retire with them. Recent studies have shown that the mature workforce is not retiring as early as expected. This not only temporarily reduces the impact of the skilled workforce challenge but it gives us the opportunity to ensure that they pass along the knowledge to the workers of the future.

Improving our record of trades training and skills development will require more resources and stronger commitments from all involved including employees, unions, employers, government and training institutions.

President & Chief Executive Officer

Glotman Simpson – A Dedicated Concert Partner

One of British Columbia's leading engineering firms, Glotman Simpson Consulting Engineers, has been Concert's partner since its inception in 1989. Over the past nearly 20 years, Glotman Simpson has provided quality, cost-conscious structural engineering consulting services for the majority of Concert's projects beginning with Cassiar Court and including StoneCliff, Astoria, Alvar, Fraser Pointe I and II, the Victoria Marriott Inner Harbour Hotel and The O'Keefe seniors living community.

Glotman Simpson began as a three-person consulting firm and built its practice with a small group of partners who would be loyal and fun to work with over the long term. Managing Principal Geoffrey Glotman is a senior engineer with 22 years of experience in structural engineering and business administration, and says, "The partnership with Concert was really the beginning of our firm's growth. We had an opportunity to get into the highrise development arena, and as Concert expanded and grew successfully, so did Glotman Simpson."

Glotman first worked with Roy Patzer at Concert early in his career and immediately found they were looking for the same things in a professional partnership. "Concert believes in quality, loyalty and community, and that really jibes with our vision to strive to be the best quality provider of structural engineering both here and abroad," adds Glotman.

Based on Glotman Simpson's reputation for quality and Vancouver's fame as a showcase for urban development, including Concert's developments, Glotman Simpson has established operations throughout Canada and the western United States. The overall result is a firm with a great depth of experience, ability and resources that enable Glotman Simpson to provide clients with a wide range of services and capabilities.

Glotman Simpson is providing structural engineering services for the expansion of the Vancouver Convention and Exhibition Centre. Concert CEO and President, David Podmore serves as Chairman of the Board for both BC Pavilion Corporation and the Vancouver Convention Centre Expansion Project (VCCEP).

Ranked as one of the top structural engineering firms by Southam Construction Information Services for volume of construction in British Columbia, Glotman says their success is a result of excellent working relationships with a few quality partners. "Ninety per cent of our work is with 10 per cent of our clients. The 90-10 rule is a good rule and ensures we deliver quality service to a select number of clients."

Glotman continues, "From the beginning, we felt like we were working as part of a family. Roy Patzer used to come to meetings and tell us we were the 'A' team. We work as a team on all issues that arise, and that really makes a project run smoothly."

Glotman Simpson has continued the same level of teamwork with Arif Rahemtulla, Senior Vice President Construction. "We now have the same great relationship with Arif since Roy passed the torch to him," says Glotman.

Glotman Simpson has a dedicated and experienced staff of more than 70 people who bring a unique level of expertise to every project, along with a flexible, team-based approach. Individuals at Glotman Simpson are also currently working on a number of green building projects and have several professionals on staff who are LEED® accredited.

SPRING CLEAN UP AT JAZZ IN TORONTO

Concert Goes to Bat for Charity

Thanks and congratulations go to everyone who took part in or contributed to the 2007 BC Children's Hospital Slo-Pitch Weekend fundraiser on May 25.

Concert raised $10,240 this year – a $3,000 increase over the amount raised last year, which is a great accomplishment.

Team Concert at the BC Children's Hospital Foundation's Slo-Pitch Weekend, May 2007

"I want to thank David and Senior Management for their support of the tournament and for enabling us to participate in a great event such as this," said Curtis Neeser, Assistant Development Manager.

"I would also would like to thank Bob Petrusa for his extraordinary fundraising (and pitching) efforts."

In addition to the funds raised, Concert had an unprecedented turnout this year, with 22 players joining the baseball tournament. One hundred per cent of the money raised went to BC Children's Hospital.

Concert is Silver Finalist in 2007 CARE Awards

Concert is pleased to have been named a Silver Finalist in the 2007 CARE Awards of Vancouver Island. Concert is a finalist in five categories: Best Condominium/Mixed-Use Development, Best Sales Centre, Best Overall Marketing Campaign, Best Website and Best Customer Service.

Concert received the first four CARE nominations for Belvedere – a 16-storey, 77-suite, mixed-use concrete tower in Victoria – and was also nominated for the Best Customer Service award.

Kessa Lungull – Site Manager, Collingwood Village

As a developer with a difference, Concert's team is made up of people with a difference. One such employee is the Site Manager at Collingwood Village, who demonstrates that difference with her generous can-do attitude.

Kessa Lungull has been with Concert for seven years and says she has loved every one of them. Kessa first became familiar with Concert when she moved into Cassiar Court with her young family in 1990 as a resident after her husband passed away.

As a Burnaby school board employee who was laid off in the summer months, Kessa started helping out at Cassiar Court for some extra income and to keep herself busy. At the end of that first summer, Concert asked Kessa to join the company, and she eventually became Manager at Cassiar Court and Parkside.

An involved and appreciative member of the community, Kessa has always enjoyed living in the neighbourhood and contributing to its well being. She spearheaded the 'Know Your Neighbour' program in an effort to clean up the community and make it safer for area residents.

Some years ago, Kessa took on a little league concession, bringing its meagre revenues up to a point where it made $17,000 in seven weeks. Selling a variety of items, from hot dogs to souvlaki and tzatziki, people would come to the park as much for the food as for the games.

Now, as Site Manager of Collingwood Village, Kessa continues to make an impact on the community. "I have the opportunity to help make someone's home special – an apartment is not just a rental, it's a home you live in," she says.

Working for Concert reinforces that supportive spirit – Kessa describes a sense of family when speaking about the company. "I lucked out working for a company that cares – where I am not just an employee," she says. "When I was sick, Concert was there, and I've always been provided with the education and tools to do the best job possible."

When Kessa looks ahead, she sees continuing her work with Concert, offering people the homes of the future. She loves to please people and sees working for Concert as the perfect place to do that.

Kessa shares Concert's values that focus on people, customer service and commitment to building communities. And, according to this enthusiastic manager, there is no better place to live those values than at Collingwood Village.
